To Whom It May Concern:

Alice Gosti is an undergraduate honors student in good standing at the University of Washington in Seattle, Washington, U.S.A. Ms. Gosti is producing an original choreography and dance to be performed in a traveling exhibition at international airports across the world. This production is Ms. Gosti's senior honors project in the University's Dance Program. Additionally, Ms. Gosti has received a Mary Gates Venture Scholarship to support her research and production expenses. Ms. Gosti has been named a Mary Gates Scholar, an honor bestowed upon the University's most ambitious students whose undergraduate work is often at graduate level and recognized in professional communities.

We support Ms. Gosti in her vision to introduce through dance the concept of time and place in airports, a space known for the suspension of time and place. We also support her request for permission from the airports at which she hopes to perform and document her production.

If you have questions regarding the integrity or trustworthiness of this student or about the project, please do not hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,
